

3.1.6 USE OF FORCE

3.1.6.1 GENERAL GUIDELINES (KACP)

In all instances, police officers of this Department are expected to use the reasonable amount of force necessary to lawfully and properly neutralize an unlawful assault or that which is necessary to overcome resistance by a person taken into custody.

The Department has a number of policing equipment and/or tools that are manufactured with the intent to be used as less than lethal force devices and/or distraction devices. If and when equipment and devices of this nature are used, they should be used within the manufacturer's guidelines and by personnel that have been trained in their respective use. However, nothing in this policy prohibits their use in extraordinary situations or circumstances that were not or could not be reasonably foreseen.

An officer is not justified in the use of deadly force to protect himself or others from assaults which are not likely to result in death or serious physical injury.

3.1.6.3 SPECIFIC (KACP)

- 1) The use of physical force by an officer upon another person is justifiable when the officer, acting under official authority, is making or assisting in making an arrest, and he:
 - a) Believes that such force is necessary to effect the arrest;
 - b) Makes known the purpose of the arrest or believes that it is otherwise known or cannot reasonably be made known to the person to be arrested; and
 - c) Believes the arrest to be lawful.
- 2) The use of deadly physical force by an officer upon another person is justifiable under the circumstances listed above only when:
 - a) The officer, in effecting the arrest, is authorized to act as a peace officer; and
 - b) The arrest is for a felony involving the use or threatened use of physical force likely to cause death or serious physical injury; and
 - c) The officer believes that the person to be arrested is likely to endanger human life unless apprehended without delay.
- 3) The use of physical force, including deadly physical force, by an officer upon another person is justifiable when the officer is preventing the escape of an arrested person, but is limited to the same requirements of justification of the use of force under items 1) and 2) above to re-effect the re-arrest:
- 4) Force likely to cause death or serious physical injury may not be used on mere suspicion that a crime, no matter how serious, was committed or that the person being pursued committed the crime. Officers should either have witnessed the crime or should have probable cause to believe the suspect committed an offense for which the use of deadly force is permitted. Flight in and of itself is not necessarily evidence of the commission of a crime and is not sufficient reason for the use of firearms.
- 5) Justification for the use of deadly force must be limited to what reasonably appears to be the facts known by an officer at the time he decides to use such force. Facts unknown to the officer, no matter how compelling, cannot be considered in later determining whether the shooting was justified.
- 6) Officers shall not use a chokehold or neck restraint in the performance of his or her duties, unless deadly force is justified.
 - a) Officers shall not intentionally use any technique that restricts blood flow to the head, restricts respiration or which creates a reasonable likelihood that blood flow to the head or respiration would be restricted for the purpose of seizing evidence or preventing the destruction of evidence by ingestion.
 - b) Officers restraining a subject should be cognizant of and avoid positional asphyxia. Prolonged, face-down prone restraint of a subject is prohibited. When the subject's active resistance has ceased, and it is safe to do so, the subject should be moved from the face-down position.

- c) Officers shall monitor the subject's medical condition. If the subject has difficulty breathing, exhibits other obvious signs of medical distress, and/or requests medical assistance, officers shall request medical assistance and provide safe access to the injured person for emergency medical services as soon as safe and practical. Officers should render aid when safe to do so in accordance with their training.
- d) If the subject is being lodged in a correctional facility and/or taken to a medical facility, officers shall advise the intake personnel the subject was rendered unconscious or subjected to a chokehold during restraint.
